707 SKYWARD DVD

707 SKYWARD

Royal Australian Air Force Boeing 707 A20-261 was awaiting the scrapper at RAAF Amberley in Queensland, Australia when Tom Vaughan, boss of Turbine Motor Works, decided to try to rescue it & fly it to the UK

A year later, Tom and a team of engineers headed out to Amberley, together with our camera crew whom Tom had asked to record the project. Sent on ahead, were four JT3Ds and the heavy equipment needed to re-engine the 707 and get it back in the air.

Unrestricted access to every aspect of the restoration of the 707 gives an amazing insight into how a fifties jetliner works, plus you have a real sense of being there as the crew go through the highs and lows of engine runs, rejected take-offs, bug-fixing and flight testing.

"Crossing Australia to Darwin took six hours alone. Next day we left for the Maldives, surviving oil leaks and a 90 degree 23 knot crosswind when landing at Male. Then on to Cairo and finally Manston in Kent."

Again, Tom's wish to record the event gave superb access; three cameras in the cockpit and two in the cabin, where several rows of seats were removed to get a better view!

This superb DVD program was compiled from 32 hours of footage, and supports the long term future of this 707 and Tom Vaughan's ambition to enable the general public to fly on it and share the adventure.
